WHY WELDED ALUMINUM

Lake Assault uses 5052 and 5083/86 aluminum plates to build your boat. The thinnest plate we use is .125" and in some boats we components made with .375" Aluminum provides a much higher strength to weight ratio than fiberglass and steel. Aluminum will not delaminate or corrode. The lighter weight provides for better fuel economy on the water and while towing behind your truck. The higher strength gives you better durability and longer life. Welding joins the components of the boat into essentially a one piece or uni-hull structure. No rivets to loosen or leak.

THE LAST BOAT YOU WILL EVER HAVE TO BUY!

You can't mass manufacture a boat this good. At Lake Assault we build our boats one at a time for the individual who knows what he wants in a boat and how he wants it to perform. When you buy your Lake Assault Boat, it will be built with your unique specifications and requirements. We add the features that provide you with the right tools to insure your success on the water.

These are not mass produced flimsy cookie cutter boats. These boats are designed and built to take just about anything your kind of fishing can dish out, big water or small. Our boats surpass industry standards for quality, safety and durability.

The Aluminum all welded hulls feature a deep-V with a Delta Pad for quick planing and a smooth dry ride. The tough utilitarian interior is perfect, because YOU designed it with our staff. We offer tillers, side consoles, dual consoles, walk thrus, center consoles, full cabs, and landing craft ramps. If there is something that you don't see that you want, tell us, we can make it.
